Embracing Change

The Natural Choice®

For more than 25 years, Passages has provided the largest selection of eco-friendly caskets, biodegradable urns, scattering products, and memorial items. Our selection has been carefully curated to help you create a meaningful and memorable experience to celebrate the life of a loved one who has passed.

Environmentally Better

People are more eco-conscious than ever, and this impacts every area of their lives. From healthier foods to more efficient vehicles, from renewable energy options to just simply recycling, sustainability has become a key part of peoples' lives. It therefore only makes sense to continue to represent these values when planning a funeral. Conventional funerals have a substantial environmental impact. By choosing a Passages product, you can greatly reduce the impact of your funeral.

Certified Fair Trade

Passages offers a comprehensive selection of certified Fair Trade options that ensure our products support good paying jobs, educational opportunities, and sustainable practices in disadvantaged rural communities. Choosing Fair Trade means choosing ethical production and a better future for both people and the planet.

The Fair Trade certified products in this catalog will be marked with the Fair Trade logo seen here. To learn more about Fair Trade, visit our website.

About Green Funerals

What Makes a Funeral "Green"? The goal is to minimize environmental impact. Any option that reduces its ecological footprint – from natural burial to scattering – is considered a green choice.

Green Burial: The greenest eco-friendly option. Green burials take place in hybrid, natural or conservation cemeteries, utilize eco-friendly caskets or shrouds to contain the body, and do not include embalming, or the use of vaults or other grave liners. Many families prefer this more natural, and often hands-on approach to creating deeply meaningful memorial experiences.

Cremation: Today's preferred funeral choice. It is flexible, cost-effective, and in many ways more sustainable than traditional burial. Families can ensure it is as eco-friendly as possible by using simple fabric shrouds, clean-burning cremation containers, and by choosing biodegradable urns for scattering on land or water.

Shades of Green: Even small steps matter. Using an eco-friendly casket in a traditional cemetery, or choosing a biodegradable urn, lowers the impact of a funeral and reflects personal values. The key is making choices that align with your families values, and provide healing and closure while celebrating and honoring a loved one.

Scattering is About Creating a Meaningful and Memorable Experience

Why do the majority of families that choose cremation go on to scatter the cremains?

Families choose scattering because it lets them create unique, personal experiences that are often not possible with a cookie-cutter conventional funeral. For example, families can purchase multiple mini-sized Journey Earthurns, charter a whale watching cruise, and scatter the remains into the ocean as a group. Families have reported using a biodegradable Sea Turtle Urn in the ocean and during their memorial service, real sea turtles made an appearance.

We cannot guarantee these amazing and unforgettable events, but this kind of experience is only made possible through the use of biodegradable urns. These goodbye ceremonies will exist forever in the minds of friends and family, and at Passages we believe that the most important thing in a funeral service is creating an experience that the attendees will remember forever - both remembering the event itself, and the life that their loved one lived.

Be a Tree

"Everybody wants to be a tree." -The New York Times

The idea of becoming a tree after death is an emotionally powerful one, creating new life after death. The best way to "be a tree" after passing on is the Biotree Urn (pg 32). Passages has also partnered with nonprofit organizations dedicated to planting trees. We offer a free Memorial Tree Certificate with the purchase of any adult casket for families in the continental US. Families can redeem the certificate to receive a free 12" tree sapling of a species that will grow in their area. Memorial Trees include a 1-year warranty, ensuring they are able to grow when planted.

Bury an Urn, Plant a Tree.

After using a biodegradable urn, a loved one can be remembered for many lifetimes by planting a tree above where you buried a Passages® urn or scatter cremated remains. Simply visit our website at www.passagesinternational.com/shop and purchase a live 12" tree sapling online.

Memorial Medallions are another great way to permanently remember a loved one. These 25 gram solid bronze medallions with original "Tree of Life" artwork are a tangible way to remember loved ones long after they are gone. Engrave the back of the Medallions and hand them out at funeral or memorial services, or keep one close by as a remembrance. Memorial Pendants are also available on a leather cord, and can adorn many of our urns that are not suitable for engraving.

Where do you want to be remembered?

All of our urns include a code to pinpoint the final resting place of cremated remains and create a personalized online memorial on the Etern.Life Memorial Map. See page 15 for more information.

Where do you want to be remembered?

Every Passages® Scattering Tube and Urn comes with a unique code that gives families access to Etern.Life, our digital Memorial Map. This online platform allows you to create a permanent memorial page for your loved one and mark the exact place where their cremated remains were laid to rest—whether scattered at sea, buried in the earth, or kept in a special place.

With your Etern.Life code, you can easily build a personalized memorial by uploading photos, sharing stories, and capturing the details of your loved one's farewell ceremony. The memorial can be shared with family and friends, connected to an obituary, and revisited at any time.

Etern.Life is designed to provide the same sense of community that cemeteries offer families who choose burial, while creating a digital space for those who choose scattering or other eco-friendly alternatives.

Biotree™

Celebrate life with a living memorial in the form of a tree.

The Biotree Urn is designed to shape a greener planet by changing our traditions from that of graves to those of forests. The Biotree Urn is made using bamboo fibers and a food-grade binding agent. The system, including the cork-separator and cocopeat disc that becomes the medium in which the tree will grow, help to lower the pH level of cremated remains, allowing the tree to grow.

We take great care in selecting tree species that are harmonious to your local environment, complementing the unique ecosystem that surrounds them, and creating a living tribute for those who now rest at their roots. A certificate is provided with each Biotree Urn, which families can redeem to receive their free tree seeds or discounted memorial tree sapling.

Keep At Home

Hand-crafted from bamboo ply or woven bamboo, a sustainable and rapidly renewable resource. These urns are not made using a bamboo species consumed by endangered panda populations. No toxic adhesives or finishes are used in the construction of this urn, and it is suitable for placement in the home or a cemetery niche. This urn can also be buried in the earth, where it will biodegrade naturally over time.
