

Mr. Duilio "Dewey" Ragonese

March 29, 1928 - May 3, 2020

UTICA - Mr. Duilio "Dewey" Ragonese, age 92, was reunited with his son Vinny when he passed away on Sunday, May 3, 2020 at the Katherine Luther Residential Health Care and Rehabilitation Center.

Born in the town of Castelforte, province of Latina in the Lazio region of central Italy, Duilio was the son of the late Vincenzo and Caterina Ragonese. As a young man, he migrated to Canada and then relocated to Utica. On January 6, 1952 he married the former Emma Fallone, his childhood sweetheart. They were great companions who shared common values and made a wonderful life for themselves and their family. Their marriage spanned just over 68 years.

An accomplished carpenter, Dewey worked for a number of area construction companies including S & D Construction, until his retirement in 1990. With an aim for perfection and attention to detail, he rose early in the morning to a job he enjoyed. He felt a great sense of accomplishment in his decades long dedication to his craft and career. His life was made rich by his Italian culture, including his love of vegetable gardens and his many fig trees. He tended to them with care, and they returned the favor by producing a bountiful harvest that he shared with family and friends. He also enjoyed fishing and hunting, not only as a sport, but also as a source of food for the dinner table. A genuine family man, Duilio wanted the best for his loved ones and he was proud that he had many friends who could go to him if they needed anything. He was ahead of his time, and he understood the problems that the world currently faced.

He was a strong willed man who strived to live by the values that were so important to his generation. Many may not know that he attended classes at Munson-Williams-Proctor Arts Institute that brought out his creative eye and visual artistic abilities in sculpting stone! He adored his children and grandchildren, and left them a lifetime of wisdom and time-honored values that guided him through his journey — and will guide them through theirs. Duilio is survived by his beloved wife, Emma; and his daughter and son-in-law, Diana Stevenson and Robert Moore. He always held his son Vinny's passing close to his heart and he was always on his mind; (November 6, 2003). He also leaves his grandchildren, Katie and Matthew Grinneil; Dewey Ragonese, Eric Lawless, and Michael Brown; his great-grandchildren, Isla, and Emma who loved him very much, and he, them; his nieces and nephews, especially acknowledging Angela Di Paola, and Giovanna and Frank Veza; great-nieces. great-nephews; sister-in-law, Mary Fallone; and family friends, Cecelia and Ronald Gouse. He was predeceased by his siblings and their spouses, Raffael and Maria Ragonese, Emma and Antonio Falso, and Emilia and Salvatore Veza; and in-laws, Angelo and Graziella Fallone, Quirna and Alexandro Rosato, Carmella and Severino Di Paola, and Arthur Fallone. The family extends sincere appreciation to the staff of MVHS at St. Elizabeth Medical Center/Special Care Unit, especially Jody, who were an extension of the family's love for Dewey; and the personnel of the Katherine Luther Residential Health Care Center/Willow Way and Gordon Units for their compassionate, understanding ways, and being close to Dewey when his family could not.

Due to current health concerns and in keeping with federal and state regulations, services at Calvary Mausoleum will be held privately.

Please take a moment to connect with Dewey's family through the "Memories" section of his obituary on our website.

Our prayers go out to all as a sign of our continued support.

“ Emma,

I am so sorry you have lost your Dewey.

I grew up knowing the cheerful, smiling Dewey Ragonese, knowing him as one of my parents' most trusted and beloved employees.

The world was definitely a better place with Dewey in it.

My most sincere sympathy goes out to you and your family.

“ On the 3rd of May we lost a great man. To all of us he was a legend. Uncle Dewey as we referred to him was a blessing to all of us. All the years that we knew him he never failed to impress all of us with his wisdom and compassion. A quote from Uncle Dewey is as follows. "When you own a home you have to wear many hats". We all knew that we could not keep him forever. We all hope now that because he touched the hearts of all of us that he will be joined by all that left this earth before him. Your work is done Dewey go in piece and pray for us. The Sciortino's

“ This very sad news. Duilio and my dad (Raffaele Ragonese) grew up together in Castelforte. They were cousins and best friends that loved each others like brothers. They immigrated to Montreal along with Duilio's brother Raffaele. I do remember eading a letter that my dad wrote to his father saying how sad he was when Duilio decided to kove to the USA.

On a personal basis I vaguely remember him growing up in Castelforte as he lived next door to us in zio Vincenzo's home. I will always remember him as a kind and caring man always with a smile on his face.

Quite a few years back I called him at his home and we talked for quite a while reminiscing about the past.

I would like to take this opportunity to extend my sincere condolences to his family and especially Diana who I only know through Facebook. May the memories sustain you.
