“ You silly little toddler so giggly and shy, Where have you gone with out saying good bye?
You grew to a child so hopeful with dreams and talents as you drew pictures of moon beams .
But then where'd you go with out saying a word? You're suddenly a teen with friend and a BO so stubborn yet sweet and comical you did grow. Where have you gone as I look again you there but with children to sweeten the pack. To love and to cherish and to spoil as I did you, as you taught them to love,walk & to talk , they are little you's . but still you did grow as you follow your path an amazing woman came from that little act . But now where did you go I see you no more as with your grandma you walk though heavens door. I know you are watching us all eating cake and drinking pepsi as you celebrate ever lasting life looking down as you smile.
I love you Becky you and your humor and beautiful smile & giggles will be so greatly missed . love Aunt Anna
