“ A sudden loss, so unexpected, a good man. He was very blessed to have the love of his nieces, Ros and Sarah, that made sure he was well taken care of. He knew he could count on them. I know his parents and siblings were watching, especially his brother Art, making them so proud that these two made sure the last of that generation left this world loved. Rest in peace Savvy (Sal).

“ Our time was short even though I remember when I was a kid you coming over visiting me and mom. My passion for motorcycles didn't start until later and I never knew you shared the same until later in your life. But we spent the last of your life well together your history u gave me in Motorcycles to story's you shared with me of the family, life on 2 wheels and the hard jobs u worked in your lifetime I will always remember.

If I had know you had to go home the day after I seen ya I would spent the last 24hrs of life with ya. Got a nice shrine I will keep forever on the garage wall of you so when I'm working on a bike your right there with me working too we had work to do together but I'll take over from hererest easy UNCLE SAL

Dear Uncle Sovie,

It's only been a month since you left us but it feels like yesterday. I miss you.

I miss our visits and those long phone conversations we had. I just want to say thank you for the wonderful times we shared and for all the good advice you gave to Sarah and me. Even though I am not knowledgeable about 🏍️ I enjoyed your conversations with Sarah. I know how fond of her you were and she of you. Seeing the bond between you 2 was beautiful and inspiring. My mom, Marcella Kay, always said you were special and she was right. I'm glad your with Dad and the rest of your family until we meet again...Rest In Peace Uncle Sovie
